Our Vision

One Day is a publication written for and about Teach For America alumni. The magazine highlights the accomplishments and challenges of our corps members and alumni while also focusing on relevant issues in education. By illuminating complex topics of interest to our alumni, we hope to inspire an exchange of ideas that promotes innovative thinking and action to address critical problems in education reform. One Day is dedicated to providing our alumni with the knowledge and tools necessary to help move them forward in their professional aspirations.

Our Reader

Teach For America alumni are diverse in background, profession, and beliefs. United by their corps experience and a deep conviction that all children have the potential to learn and succeed, our alumni are leading social change from many sectors and fields, including education, business, politics, and law.
